

Just an average House. In the Tennessee country side, Right?

Except for the hidden door in the Garage

Hydraulic operated door leads from the garage

Inside, the Pot Cave

Concealed inside is an elaborate
pot growing operation

Concealed inside is an elaborate
pot growing operation

Equipped with irrigation

The pot cave runs 50 yards back into the hill the house was built against

Equipped with grow lights and ventilation

The image shows a large-scale indoor cultivation facility. Rows of cannabis plants are growing in white buckets, which are placed on a wooden slatted floor. Each plant is supported by a vertical metal stake. Above the plants, several large, square, silver-colored grow lights are suspended from the ceiling by chains. A large, black, flexible ventilation duct is visible in the upper left corner, running along the ceiling. The overall environment is dimly lit, with the primary light source being the grow lights.

The average man is how tall?

A Multi-Million Dollars Operation

Harvest could be done every 60 days

More Drip irrigation and climate control

Escape routes are a must.

Looking up the escape tunnel

Outside door of the escape tunnel looks like any other rock